

Envy

I envy

the bath robe as it wraps you in the morning the carpet as it feels your footsteps across it the water in the shower as it caresses your body the soap as it cleanses your skin the shampoo as it flows through your hair the towel as it dries you the faucet as you move it with your amorous hand the toothbrush as its bristles embrace your teeth in a purposeful way the brush as its fingers run through your hair stroking each strand the clothes you put on as they slide over across and around you the shoes you put on as they encase your fanciful feet the sink in the kitchen as you pour the water for your cup of tea the cup as you brew the tea the tea bag inhaling and exhaling the light in the kitchen as it reflects from your eyes the air in your home as it fills you with life the wind outside as it traverses the leaves sending sensual messages to your ears the door as you open it to gain passage to the world the sun as it warms you the dew-covered blades of grass and roses as they greet you every morning