

I Love You

amongst the stars

Where is it written that my love for you is forever?

in the twinkling at the outer reaches of the universe in the rising of a full moon at the autumnal equinox

Liquid thoughts that defy explanation they emerge from the intuitive the creative pouring into consciousness like a river of light sometimes soaring diving leaping grounded sometimes speeding so slow that time ceases sometimes painful the time away from you hurts so I am transformed

I become more much more happier ecstatic

The same song plays over and over and in my heart mirroring all that I feel for you no one else has ever made me feel this way

A blessing a curse swirling coursing flowing connecting disconnecting rising falling ebb and flow

A warmth a coolness

A whisper a shout

a touch

a calling

a remembrance of things that matter that are everlasting

Try to see it

it cannot be seen

Try to explain it

it cannot be explained

Try to hold on to it

it cannot be held

It is the center

the circle within the circle the star of stars

the music within music

the beauty within beauty the truth within truth

The scent of it sends the heart racing earthy

fleshly

openly inhale deeply exhilarating

At night it is closer a palpable presence that permeates all possibilities you can almost hear it but not with your ears what colors what notes what enchantments

You say you know but it cannot be known

The little things

God in the details

Wave after wave collapses upon your shore washing away all doubt leaving only the seaweed and shells

How shall I tell you that

I love you